

Creating a Tune Recorder

Storing the lists of notes and note durations in variables makes it feasible to add new notes and note durations to the respective lists. The Add Thing to List code block (also found in the Variables section of the Command Palette) can be used to add additional notes and note lengths.

Once these code blocks have been tested and verified to work as anticipated, they can be used to construct an Add Note custom code block.

This custom block adds a note with a specified length to the Note List and Note Lengths lists respectively.
